This block includes about 50 townships, and roughly speaking takes in from township 28 to 34 in ranges 25 west of the 4th meridian to range 5 west of the 5th. The Lone Pine is a little north of the centre of this block. South of Calgary the C. & E. company appear to own all the odd sections in a belt about 20 miles wide on each side of the proposed railway line, south of the 20 miles belt of the C. P. R. to the boundary. North of township 34 to Edmonton the land along the C. & E. belongs to the C. P. R.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, MAY 30, 1891.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT AGAIN.

If support were needed for the opinion recently expressed by the BULLETIN as to the real mission of Messrs. Brett and Betts to Ottawa it would be found in the telegram on the subject which appears in this issue. When we find that the adoption of responsible local government is opposed by all the parliamentary representatives of the Northwest we can easily see that our cause is in bad hands. Small wonder that, represented by Messrs. Brett and Betts, responsible government should find little favor with any one. It is not fair to any of the parties concerned to conclude that if the case had been properly represented the conclusion would have been the same, when there is so much reason to believe in this case that it has been improperly represented, through a combined lack of ability and desire.

From what brilliant brain emanated the proposition to erect three local governments where there is as yet scarcely standing room for one the despatch does not state. But it is safe to say that no matter how unanimous the parliamentary representatives of the Territories may be in seeking to strengthen themselves in their several principal towns by suggesting that each be made at once a provincial capital, the people of the Territories outside of these several towns will be quite as unanimous in rejecting any such real estate and office grabbing speculation. Every patriotic resident of the Northwest hopes to see the time when the Territories shall require by reason of increased population to be divided into two or three or more separate Territories or provinces, and every public spirited resident gives his best attention towards securing that end—that is the increased population not the mere increase in the number of capital towns or of government officials. The question on this point: Will it advance the material welfare of the Territories more to expend say $100,000 a year in keeping up two extra local governments, or to expend that amount in extending the aid to schools and public works under one local government? There is no question that the material interests of nine tenths of the people are on the side of more schools, better roads and a larger water supply in the dry districts. But the talk of setting up one or more extra local governments in the Northwest at the present time is such pure buncombe that it is scarcely worth considering. If the representative of the western real estate speculator has a lively sense of the increase in the value of town lots likely to result from the making of any certain place a capital, the representative of the eastern tax payer is likely to have a not less lively appreciation of the necessity of keeping Northwest expenditure down to reasonable limits. The only object that any person can have in putting forth such an unlikely proposition is that the several centres of business in the three districts may begin to squabble amongst themselves as to which shall be the place, and thereby cause the pressing necessity of a proper administration of the public funds to be lost sight of, to the end that the men who now have the mispending of the money may continue to have it.

A point upon which many of the papers discussing this question are at fault is in their taking for granted that the act as it stands at present does not make the advisers of the lieutenant-governor, who handle the funds responsible to the house. The Northwest act does this quite as expressly as the British North America act does in regard to the advisers of the governor-general. The trouble that has arisen in the affairs of the Northwest government has not been from any misunderstanding of this provision on the part of either the majority of the assembly or the lieutenant-governor, but simply from the determination of the lieutenant-governor to refuse the advice of responsible advisers, that is advisers representing the majority of the assembly. By doing this government by minority, was instituted and it was against this that the efforts of the majority of the assembly at its late session was directed. Government by majority is the measure of responsible government which the interests of the Territories require and the people of the Territories demand, and to which it is ridiculous to say that the parliamentary representatives of the Northwest refuse to agree.

Not long ago the BULLETIN alluded to the services rendered by the present government of Manitoba, not only to that province but to the whole Northwest as well, in the matter of the assistance recently offered the Hudson's Bay railway, and in the removal of Northwest railway monopoly some years ago.

The Free Press objects to any credit being given the hateful Greenway gang either in regard to the Hudson Bay railway or the removal of monopoly, and reasons in a fatherly way with the BULLETIN on the subject. It asserts that the Greenway government vehemently opposed the H. B. railway scheme for three sessions and at last were driven by political necessity, and not the public interest, to make the offer alluded to. It is a matter of the utmost indifference to the BULLETIN what the previous course of the Greenway government was, or what its motives were, the article in this paper dealt with the simple fact that the offer made was likely to secure the building of the railway, which would be of certain material advantage this place; and unless the Free Press can successfully dispute that statement it has no fair grounds for adverse criticism. But if the motives and previous actions of the Greenway government in this connection are to be discussed the BULLETIN is quite willing to state the case according to its understanding. The Hudson Bay railway company secured some years ago from the Manitoba government a promise of assistance to the amount of some four million dollars. This amount the Greenway gang thought was more than the province could afford to pay, and besides was more than its fair share, considering the greater benefit to be reaped by the far more extensive territories. The government felt compelled to protect the interests of the province and declined to pay the larger amount, but offered a smaller amount of assistance towards the road as a provincial undertaking. The amount offered was inadequate. The company, finding that they could not get the immense sum at first promised offered to take three-eighths of that amount. With this offer the government closed at once. Under the present arrangement the company receives what it acknowledges is adequate assistance towards the building of the road and the province is saved just $2,500,000 over the first proposed arrangement. There is therefore no kick coming from the side of either the province or the railway company. It is just possible that this little two and half millions that failed to materialize in the company's treasury was the bottom reason of the Free Press antagonism to the Greenway government, and the certainty that as long as that government remains in power there will be no such soft swags going accounts for theaching desire of the Free Press to see more pliable politicians in office. In regard to the removal of the C. P. R. monopoly the Free Press calmly asserts that this was brought about by a letter from Goldwin Smith, to an unnamed, imperial statesman, and that neither the premier of Canada nor of Manitoba had anything to do with it. If this is the fact the Free Press might at least do the imperial statesman the honor of mentioning his name; and the Northwest cannot do better than engage Mr. Smith to write letters to that or other imperial statesmen on other matters which badly need regulating—the high tariff for instance. Better still, let us discharge the two useless premiers and engage Mr. Smith and the imperial statesman to fill the vacant positions. The Free Press must be hard run for arguments when compelled to put forward such childishness as a statement of facts.

NORTHWEST MATTERS.

N. F. Davin, M. P. gives notice of the following motions in parliament:

That, whereas in 1882 an act was passed granting second homesteads to those settlers who had completed the conditions of the first homestead entry; and, whereas, in 1886, an act was passed abolishing the policy of second homesteads; and, whereas in 1887 an act was passed which acknowledged the principle and right of those second homesteads, it should now be enacted that all those settlers who came in between 1st June, 1883, and 2nd June, 1886, should, on completing their improvements, be granted a second homestead.

That, whereas notwithstanding the liberal policy of the government of Sir John A. Macdonald pursued in regard to the Northwest Territories, and the well-established fact of the great fertility of the country, their settlement has not yet reached the proportions expected, this house is of opinion that a policy can be devised which will more rapidly people those territories.

That, whereas in the last session of parliament, a motion dealing with prairie fires and the responsibility of railway companies for the same, especially in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories, was in the main adopted by the government and incorporated in a bill; and whereas, the clause founded on such motion was eliminated in the railway committee of the senate and the bill returned to this house too late admit of its being re-inserted; and whereas the nuisance sought to be remedied by such clause still exists, it be now resolved, that such an amendment to the railway act is imperatively necessary, with provision for an adequate penalty.

Regina Leader, May 12: The magnificent way spring was ushered in has been somewhat offset by the weather of the last two weeks. A three days Dakota wind struck the Northwest in the early part of last week, being preceded by a snow-fall from the northeast. During the wind storm a frost cut down much of the early garden stuff, but did not materially injure grain. The principal damage was caused by the soil drifting, but advices from different points are to the effect that the injury was not serious except in a few cases of crops on light soil. The damage on the Experimental farm was we fear somewhat serious.

In introducing his bill to place the language and school questions in the Northwest under the control of the Northwest assembly Dalton McCarthy said: that the right of a dual language in Canada was based upon the British North America, or confederation Act, but this did not cover the case of the Territories. He also said that certain difficulties had arisen to render the maintenance of separate schools in Quebec and Ontario imperative, but the right ended there.

The brewers of New York state are bringing pressure on the United States government to have the duty on Canadian barley reduced, as they are compelled to import it no matter how high the duty may be.

An arrangement between Sutherland of the Hudson's Bay railway and Ross, Mann, Holt & Mackenzie, has been arrived at, and hereafter, Sutherland will have the contracting firm's support.

The dispute between the Northwest Central railway company and its contractor Charbois is likely to be settled soon, when the part of the road already constructed will be operated.

Reported that there is a dispute between Duncan McIntyre and some of his associates on the C. P. R. directorate regarding the issue of bonds for the purchase of the C. & E. railway.

Odd numbered sections along the C. & E. railway are being sold at $2.50 an acre and upward. One-tenth cash, balance in nine equal annual instalments with interest at 6 per cent.

Jas. McNaught, president of the Northern Pacific & Manitoba denies that his company has sold or negotiated with a view to selling its lines in Manitoba to the C. P. R.

J. B. Tyrrell of the geological survey reports the discovery of amber in considerable quantities on the banks of the Lower Saskatchewan at Chemahawin H. B. post.

The mail from Hong Kong to London goes in 30 days by the C. P. R. against 43 by Suez. From Yokohama, Japan the C. P. R. time is 26 days against 45 days by Suez.

The newspaper organ of the Russian government does not support the contention of the United States government that Behring's sea is a closed sea.

In 1886 there was not a creamery or cheese factory in Manitoba or the Northwest. In 1890 there were 14 creameries and 25 cheese factories.

Prince Albert wants to borrow $4,000 to erect an addition to the public school building.

The C. P. R. will very shortly give railroad competition to Spokane Falls, Washington.

Butter is plentiful at 21c to 23c in Winnipeg.
